

WEAP VISIT 2011

The Water Environment Association of the Philippines (WEAP), in partnership with the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR), conducted its annual Advanced Training Course on Pollution Officers on June 22-24, 2011. Part of the program of the training was an activity involving exposure to an industrial setting, and JM Ecotech Solutions Co. was selected as the facilitator for the said activity.

The company welcomed the participants of the WEAP training with joyful smiles on the afternoon of June 23, 2011. Representatives of the departments of the company introduced the participants to their respective sections to give them a grasp of the technologies utilized by the company. They also entertained and answered questions raised by the participants on the company processes and water quality monitoring.

The Water Environment Association of the Philippines is a non-profit and non-stock organization that is registered in the Philippines. It was established in 1994 as a venue for professionals from different industries and agencies to learn and share information and technology in order to address the environmental protection in the Philippines, most especially on water resources. Their services include professional development and enrichment, access to technical information, business contacts, promotion of high technical standards and improved public awareness and understanding of environmental issues.
