JM ECOTECH participated in the latest Pollution Control Officers' Forum jointly spearheaded by the Water Environment Association of the Philippines (WEAP) and the Department of Environment & Natural Resources - Environmental Management Bureau (DENR-EMB), which was held last December 10, 2013 at the Hotel H2O, Manila.

The forum was held in order to update Pollution Control Officers regarding new environmental policies and programs of the DENR-EMB as well as to share good practices in wastewater management, hazardous waste management and air pollution control technologies within the PCO community. JM Ecotech was invited to speak about Good Practices in Hazardous Waste Management, and, in line with this, representatives Ms. Jennevie Valenzuela and Mr. Jo Albin Nery shared the company's knowledge and experience in proper labeling, packaging and managing the storage of hazardous wastes as well as the application of the 5S principle in hazardous waste management. The discussion was warmly appreciated by and sparked interest in proper hazardous waste management within the PCO community across all kinds of industries in the Philippines.
